BOY-ED HANDLED CONSPIRACY FUND WITNESS SWEARS

Paid $750,000 in Alleged Plot to Aid Germany's Commerce Raiders.

CASH SENT FROM BERLIN

Used to Outfit Steamers Sailing Under False Papers from U. S. Ports.

IS FRIEND OF NAVAL ATTACHE

Sensational Testimony Given by Gustave Kulenkampff at Hamburg Line Officials' Trial.

Special to The Washington Herald.

New York, Nov. 23.—Capt. Richard Boy-Ed, naval attaché of the German Embassy, was named as the "director and supervisor" of the scheme to coal and supply German warships through clearance of vessels by false papers.

The activities of the man commonly reputed to be chief of Germany's elaborate espionage system in this country became a matter of court record at the trial of the four officials of the Hamburg-American Line.

Despite a thunderous storm of objections Boy-Ed was pictured as principal financier of the alleged plot to aid the German commerce raiders. A witness whom the government frankly presented as an innocent "dummy" in the transaction declared that he disbursed a fund of $750,000 at the direction of the attaché.

Admits $2,000,000 Was Spent.

In the midst of this testimony William Rand, Jr., chief counsel for the defense, broke in with the sensational admission that the total amount used in the expeditions was $2,000,000. Rand had previously admitted that the purpose of Dr. Karl Buehn and the other defendants in sending the ships out was to supply German ships of war.

"These admissions are an attempt to smother real facts," sharply replied Assistant United States Attorney Roger B. Wood. "We shall proceed, with the court's permission, to present our entire case."

Federal District Judge Howell ruled in favor of the government. The narration of the allegations that Boy-Ed was privy to the conspiracy followed.

Boy-Ed May Be Witness.

At the close of court rumors were rife that the naval attaché has requested permission to go upon the witness stand. An unconfirmed report was that Boy-Ed had wired the foreign office in Berlin for permission.

Gustave R. Kulenkampff, of the former firm of Weselsch, Kulenkampff & Co., exporters and importers, was the man who brought Boy-Ed's name into the proceedings. Mr. Kulenkampff is a social friend of Dr. Buehn and of Capt. Boy-Ed.

He said that his firm, at the request of the Hamburg-American Line, had cleared the cargoes of the Berwind and Lorenzo, two of the ships mentioned in the indictment. He said that just after the outbreak of war he received large sums of money from Germany.

"This money came from the Deutsche Bank in Berlin," said the witness. "I got altogether $750,000. I received a notice from Speyer and Company, stating the money had been cabled to me from the Deutsche Bank."

The Deutsche Bank is the official depository of the imperial German government. It is one of the largest financial institutions in the world.

Boy-Ed Called for Money.

"Some time later Capt. Boy-Ed came to see me," continued Mr. Kulenkampff. "I had known him for some years. Capt. Boy-Ed asked me if I had received the money. I told him I had. He said that the money was for him. I did not doubt Capt. Boy-Ed, but I asked some confirmation. Shortly after I was telephoned to by Mr. Edward Ahrens who told me the money was for Boy-Ed."

Kulenkampff said that at the direction of Capt. Boy-Ed he transferred $250,000 by wire to the Wells-Fargo Nevada National Bank in San Francisco.

A few days later he paid over $150,000 to the North German Lloyd. On September 23, 1914, he sent two checks for $25,000 each to the North German Lloyd.

"This left balance of approximately $100,000," asserted the witness. "This was placed to the credit of the Deutsche Bank. The sum has now been reduced to $75,000. Altogether by order of Capt. Boy-Ed I paid about $75,000 to the Hamburg-American Line. In addition $24,000 in remittances came to the Hamburg-American Line from Germany through me."

On cross-examination the witness said he had cleared the cargoes of the Berwind and the Lorenzo "to

Third American Ship Is Seized by British

Special to The Washington Herald.

New York, Nov. 23.—Another American steamship has been seized on the high seas.

This time it is the Kankakee, owned by the American Trans-Atlantic, whose American registry did not save her from capture.

The following cable message was received by American Trans-Atlantic officials here today:

"Buenos Ayres, Nov. 23. 'American Trans-Atlantic, New York.

'Consul here understands Kankakee captured. (Signed) 'BERGH.'"

Bergh is captain of the company's ship Manitowoc, held at Buenos Ayres for fear of British seizure if she ventures to sea. No further details were received. News of her seizure has been expected daily, however, since the vessel was seventeen days overdue at Buenos Ayres today.

ANOTHER BABE IN LIFE SCALE

"Let It Die," Say Parents of Defective Born Last Night.

OPERATION WOULD SAVE CHILD BUT DOCTORS ARE FORBIDDEN

Without It Death Is Certain to Terribly Afflicted Infant in New York Hospital.

Special to The Washington Herald.

New York, Nov. 23.—Another defective baby came into the world tonight to question doctors and parents as to its right to life or death.

The baby, a girl, lies at the Child's Hospital. If no operation is performed it likely will die within a few days. If an operation is performed, it may live, but its body will be paralyzed below the waist, and both feet will be clubbed.

At 9 o'clock tonight, Mrs. Joseph E. Roberts gave birth to this little girl. Dr. Julius Goldsmith attended her and later Dr. Maurice Rosenberg was called in.

The baby when the physicians finally helped it into the world, was found to be terribly afflicted. It had a blind spine, club feet, and paralyzed knee joint, and paralysis below the waist.

"Let It Die," Say Parents.

When the parents saw the child they implored the doctor to let it die. It was born almost lifeless, but the doctors, in spite of protests by the parents and a grandmother, resuscitated it.

Dr. Rosenberg advised an immediate operation to relieve the spine and paralysis. The parents refused permission.

In just a few days, so the doctors believe, death will come. In the meantime, that it might rest easy and be surrounded with care, the parents consented that she be removed to a hospital to wait the expected end.

The mother and father are both normal young Americans about 25 and 26 years old. They are the parents of two normal children, one 14 years old, the other 6.

The operation that the doctors urge is a delicate one. It is upon the spine. But according to Dr. Rosenberg, it would stand every chance of success and saving the baby to life-crippled.

Pretty Above the Waist.

"Above the waist, the little thing is as pretty a baby girl as I have ever seen," said Dr. Rosenberg, a few minutes after he left the mother's bedside. "But it is seriously crippled and no operation could save it from being paralyzed from the waist down all its life. An immediate operation could probably save its life, an operation on the blind spine."

"Without this death is inevitable. I urged the parents to allow this to be done immediately, but they refused."

"Even the little thing's grandmother, the mother's mother, stood beside me, and begged me to let it die. I could not operate without the parents' consent."

At his home tonight, Mr. Roberts said: "I believe the Chicago physician was right. For the sake of humanity, I had rather see this child die now or two hours from now than have it live seven or eight years in misery and suffering. I think it would be better for all concerned."

ITALY TAKES GORIZIA KEY.

Five Months of Fierce Fighting Has Been Rewarded.

Rome, Nov. 23.—After five months of fighting, the Italians have taken the Podgora Heights, the key to Gorizia, now known to the Italian soldiers as Monte Calvario because of the heavy losses suffered by them in their efforts to conquer it, as well as by the Austrian defenders.

These heights, just west of Gorizia and on the opposite bank of the Isonzo, command the stronghold. Their capture means that virtually the last step in the taking of Gorizia has been accomplished.

The Auxiliary Fleet.

The trawler fleet seems to look on mines as more or less fair-play. But with the torpedo it is otherwise. A Yarmouth man lay on his hatch with his gear neatly stowed away below, and told me that another Yarmouth boat had "gone up" with all hands except one. "Twas a submarine. Not a mine," said he. "They never gave our boys no chance. Na! She was a Yarmouth boat—we know 'em all. They never gave the boys no chance."

He was a submarine hunter, and he illustrated by means of matches placed at various angles how the blindfold business is conducted.

"And then," he ended, "there's always what he'll do. You've got to think that out for yourself—while you're working above him—same as if 'twas fish."

Tell Stories in Fish Talk.

I should not care to be hunted for the life in shallow waters by a man who knows every bank and pot hole of them, even if I had not killed his friends the week before. Being nearly all fishermen they discuss their work in terms of fish, and put in their leisure fishing overboard, when they sometimes pull up ghastly

$100,000 Price Of Her Silence

Mrs. Holden, Suing Estate, Says She Kept Secret Her Father's Double Life.

Special to The Washington Herald.

New York, Nov. 23.—The promise of $100,000 was the price of silence for Mrs. R. M. Holden.

Before Supreme Court Justice Gavanon today she testified she kept her father's "double life," a secret upon her uncle's promise to give her half of his estate at his death. As he left her the income from only $20,000, she is now suing for the promised half. The Title Guaranty and Trust Company, as his executor, is defendant.

Mrs. Holden is the daughter of Sidney P. Hubbell. He and his brother, Silas P. Hubbell, obtained $250,000 each from the Chicago estate of Charles W. Fuller.

Mrs. Holden testified that her father married Emma Hartness. The plaintiff and Dr. Charles Hubbell, a Syracuse dentist, are the surviving children. Her father afterward lived with Isabel Maxwell as his wife and three children were born of this union. Upon his death her father left her only $10,000. The bulk of his estate went to his second family.

She said she threatened to contest his will, and her uncle, Silas P. Hubbell, told her he'd give half his estate upon his death if she would not do so. Later, she said, he put the promise in writing in a letter. In 1910, when she was very ill and thought she'd die, she destroyed this alleged letter to allow the family skeleton to be buried with her. She afterward recovered and awaited her uncle's will.

100 Drowned as Bridge Falls.

Flood conditions exist throughout the island as the result of heavy rains.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Hans Schmidt, the former priest who murdered Anna Ammiller and threw her dismembered body into the Hudson River in September, 1912, must expiate his crime in the electric chair at Sing Sing. The Court of Appeals today refused to set aside the conviction.

Austrian Army of 150,000 at Pola.

Genova, Nov. 23.—Austria has concentrated 150,000 men at Pola, the chief Hungarian naval base on the Adriatic Sea. The use to which this army is to be put is not known, but the possibility exists that the Austrians may try to send it into Montenegro or Albania.

Baltimore, Nov. 23.—President Wilbur Smith, of City College, was hit and badly injured by an automobile on the street here tonight. He was taken to a hospital where it was said his condition is critical.

Big Turkish Guns Halt the Allies

Constantinople Claims Landing of New Troops Stopped on Gallipoli.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Constantinople (via Berlin and Amsterdam), Nov. 23.—Efforts by the allies to land re-enforcements on Gallipoli Peninsula have been checked by guns of heavy caliber sent to the Dardanelles front. The war office announced today that the Turkish artillery had driven off enemy transports trying to approach the Gallipoli coast at Ari Burnu.

"Near Anafarta," said the official statement, "our patrol destroyed trenches being constructed by the enemy and captured 500 bags of sand and a quantity of wire."

Our artillery drove off transports approaching the coast at Ari Burnu. On Sunday we drove off an enemy torpedo destroyer attempting to enter the Dardanelles."

Warship to Aid Citizens of U. S.

Yaqui Indians Endanger Lives and Property on Mexico's Western Coast.

Following an urgent plea by Representative Mann, of Illinois, that steps be taken to protect American citizens and American property near Topolobampo, on the west coast of Mexico, the State Department yesterday requested the Navy Department to send a warship to that port.

The commander of the Pacific fleet will send one of his cruisers there.

Representative Mann called at the State Department several days ago in the belief of several of his constituents who own property on the west coast of Mexico. He told Secretary Lansing that Yaqui Indians were terrorizing that territory and that the lives of several Americans were endangered.

Upon receiving word that the depredations were continuing, Mr. Mann called on Secretary Lansing again yesterday and urged him either to send word to Carranza that better protection must be afforded Americans or have a United States warship sent to the scene.

Two thousand Villista soldiers have reached the state of Jalisco, according to several days on horseback, according to advices reaching the State Department yesterday. The men were in a pitiable condition. Twelve died from starvation on the march from the state of Durango, where they retreated before Carranzista forces.

12,000 SERB PRISONERS TAKEN BY GEN. VON GALLWITZ'S ARMY

Bulgarians Also Claim to Have Captured 8,000 Men and Many Cannon and Machine Guns.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

London, Nov. 23.—The Bulgarians, assisted by Gen. von Gallwitz, with one German army corps, are preparing to attack the Anglo-French forces, according to Saloniki advices to the Daily Telegraph.

An Austrian headquarters report tonight states that Gen. Gallwitz is making good progress north of Pristina and already is within thirteen miles of the city. His army captured, during Sunday and Monday, 12,000 Serbians.

The desperate situation of the Serbian army was little improved today. They are retreating desperately at all points but are gradually being beaten down and surrounded.

"Eastward and southward of Pristina, the Serbians are tenaciously resisting the Bulgarians," admits a Berlin report.

To the northwest the Serbians are heavily fortifying the valleys leading out of Novipazar and the progress of the Austro-Germans has slackened because of this fact and the difficulty of the terrain.

Montenegrins Help Serbs.

The Montenegrins are helping in holding back the invaders. An official report of their operations today says: "On November 21 the enemy directed a vigorous attack against our Sanjak army in order to hamper its movements towards its new positions, but the effort was unsuccessful."

"Artillery duels continue on the other fronts."

The Austro-Hungarian advance against Mitrovica is progressing rapidly and the entire Ibar valley is now in their hands. Despite the Serbian resistance southeast of Pristina, the Bulgarians are making progress. The German war office statement today announced the capture of 8,000 Serbians, 41 cannon and 22 machine guns by the Bulgarians in that region. At the same time the capture of 1,200 Serbian prisoners by the Austro-German forces was announced.

GERMANS BEATEN IN WEST, SAYS REDMOND

"For Every Shell Teutons Throw, We Throw Five," He Tells Irishmen.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

London, Nov. 23.—John E. Redmond, just back from the front, addressed Lord Irishmen in Queen's Hall tonight. He said: "So far as the western front is concerned Germany is beaten. She is weakening daily and hourly. For every shell the Germans throw we are throwing five."

"I found the Irish regiments full of confidence, full of cheerfulness and full of fight. In most cases they marched on parade to hear my remarks, headed by pipers playing 'O'Donnell Abo,' or 'God Save Ireland.' And they carried the flag of Ireland."

"I not only met them on parade, but in the trenches. In one part of the trenches I found a battalion of the Ulster division from Belfast side by side with the Dublin. So far from friction having arisen between them, they were like true comrades and brother Irishmen."

RUSSIANS WIN SEA FIGHT.

Sink German Guardship in Baltic, Battling at Close Quarters.

Petrograd, Nov. 23.—A Russian warship in the Baltic has sunk a 2,000-ton German guardship near Windau. The guardship was armed with 15 and 4-inch guns and carried a crew of about 200.

The guardship sank after a short fight at close quarters.

It is believed this refers to the sinking of a patrol in the Baltic on Saturday. The Petrograd official communication of Monday announced that in the Baltic Sea on November 20, Russian torpedo boats near Windau (which lies to the north of Libau), sank a German patrol steamer.

The communication added that one officer and nineteen soldiers were taken prisoners and that the Russians suffered no loss.

FEARED ALLIES WOULD QUIT

Lord Kitchener's Assurance of Big New British and Russian Armies Believed to Have Influenced Wavering Monarch in Reaching Decision.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

Athens, Nov. 23.—King Constantine today put this plain proposition to the allies: "Assure Greece of safety against the Bulgarians and their Teutonic allies in case you abandon your Balkan expedition and the Greek army will demobilize."

This is virtually a reply to Lord Kitchener's reported declaration to Greek officials that England will, by next March, have 4,000,000 soldiers under arms and be prepared to provision 6,000,000 Russians.

STRONGER MAN WON HER LOVE

Murdered Motorman's Widow Tells Weird Story of "Eternal Triangle."

HUSBAND "A WEAKLING," SO HAD ONLY HER RESPECT

But Mrs. Bishop Now Says She Will Help Avenge the Murder by Rival.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 23.—Peg Everett Champlin confessed today he murdered Frederick H. Bishop, husband of the woman he loved.

Champlin, an official of the traction company, asserts he killed Bishop, a motorman, in self-defense, last Sunday. Tonight the dead man's wife, Mrs. Leah C. Bishop, told a reporter a most remarkable story of the eternal triangle.

Mrs. Bishop is about 45 years old. She is a brunette, quite striking in her appearance. Her story is so unusual that the Providence police declare it will send Champlin to prison for life.

The woman did not cry during her narrative. She showed no great emotion. She held in her hands the pictures of the two men.

"Husband a Weakling."

"Fred was a weakling. The stronger man won. I respected my husband. I loved Everett."

"There is something within me that demands the influence of a strong will. Without it I rebel. Fred was a good man. But he didn't seem to care just what I did. So I did just what my desires dictated."

"Last January I told Fred that I had been to Everett Champlin. I told him all I had done and all I felt. I told him to call Everett in and begged him to have it out then and there."

"I begged him to tell me what he had; how wrong what he could and save all he made, so we could get away from Rhode Island. I knew I had done wrong. But I knew also I could do no more womanly thing than to tell my husband."

"But Fred didn't seem to care. He simply put his arms around me and cried. He told me he loved me; couldn't get along without me. He begged me to stay with him. I never had any idea of leaving him. He was my husband. My first duty was to him."

Talked It Over with Both.

"Finally I prevailed on him to call Everett in. I watched the two men together. Everett was the strong man. He had risen in the world. He was one of the traction company's trusted men. I believed my husband would always be a motorman and nothing else."

"I told Everett I had told Fred all about our affair. Then Everett admitted it. He began to upbraid Fred. He told Fred he was the weak vessel, and I the strong. He told Fred I had to be managed firmly."

"I thought for a moment Fred would throw him out. But no, he didn't. He merely bowed his head and replied, 'I love her, too.'"

"If Fred had died a natural death I would have married Everett in time, but now I shall do what I can to avenge the murder of my husband."

Champlin is in Providence County Jail. His confession involves Mrs. Bishop.

BISHOP MOORE DEAD.

Stricken on Train, Churchman Expires in Cincinnati Hospital.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 23.—Bishop David H. Moore, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died here tonight. He was taken to a hospital today, suffering from a paralytic stroke. He was stricken on a train while returning to his home here from a visit to a brother in Chicago.

Bishop Moore was born at Athens, Ohio, September 3, 1835. He held several important pastorates. He was elected bishop in 1900. For many years he had resided in Indianapolis and later in Athens, Ohio.

Question of Self-preservation.

It is simply a question of self-preservation with the perplexed Greek monarch. Greece claims that she is still in doubt whether the allies contemplate a serious continuation of the Balkan campaign. If the allies assure her of this, then Greece will remove the troops which now form a menace to the allies' rear at Saloniki.

The best guarantee, says an authority close to the King, is the presence of the allied forces in sufficient number to render Greece's own defenses in Macedonia superfluous. Otherwise, demobilization would leave Greece Macedonia at the mercy of the victorious Bulgarians with their army already in the field.
